

Bryans Beach Coast Care

August 1995

The protective native plants on the original dune were damaged or destroyed, possibly contributing to the erosion of that dune. It was reported that the eroded area had previously been used as a hay paddock!

July 2004

A period of natural sand deposition provided an opportunity for the locals. They started planting here in 1999. The restored dunes ensure safe recreation, and natural protection for houses and roads from storm damage.
